Our HIBC Bar Code Data Formatter Has Been Updated

Our popular on-line data formatting tool has been updated to include new secondary formats recently approved for the HIBC Supplier Labeling Standard. Multiple options for encoding expiration dates and lot/batch/serial data are available for labelers who require secondary labels. In addition, the format for concatenated labels that combine primary and secondary bar code information can be created.

Labelers can quickly determine the correct data structure for their primary and secondary bar codes, including appropriate check characters. This free utility provides a convenient method to either generate codes or confirm the accuracy of codes you already have.

You can access the data formatter on our website here.
